Some see a credit score. We see a way to reach goals — and something worth protecting.

With My Financial Expert, you’ll learn how your VantageScore® is more than just a number. It’s a new car parked in your garage with a low interest rate. It’s the possibility of being accepted on a mortgage loan for the house you’re dreaming of making a home.

Learning how to better your financial wellness with Experian Credit Education — and how to protect it with our Identity Protection services — can help you open the door to the life you’ve always wanted.

Opportunity is knocking. Answer with better credit.

The travel credit cards with the best rewards typically require a good to excellent credit score.¹

A credit score between 740 and 850 is generally considered to be in the very good to excellent credit score range to buy a home.²

As of June 2020, a credit score of 657 is needed for a used-car loan, while the average credit score needed for a new-car loan is 721.³

Most private loan lenders require you to have a credit score of at least 670 or higher.⁴

Renters in high-priced buildings have average credit scores of 669, compared with 626 in mid-range buildings and 597 for low-cost apartments.⁵
